been spoken to by some of the gentlemen present—taking hold of her mother's hand, "these gentlemen wish me to sing 'Little Bessie' for them. Shall I do so?"

"Yes, darling, if they wish you to." They all joined in the request, and placing her in a chair, she sang in a sweet, childish voice the following beautiful song:

Out in the gloomy night sadiy I roam, I have no mother dear, no pleasant home;
No one cares for me, no one would cry,
Even if poor little Bessie should die.
Weary and tired I've been wandering all day,
Asking for work, but I'm too small, they say;
On the damp ground I must now lay my head,
Enther's a drunkard, and mother is dead. Father's a drunkard, and mother is dead. We were so happy till father drank rum,

Then all our sorrow and trouble begun; Mother grew pale and wept every day— Baby and I were too hungry to play; Slowly they faded, till one summer night Found their dead faces all silent and white; Then with big tears slowly dropping I said, "Father's a drunkard, and mother is dead!"

Oh! if the temperance men would only find If they would stop him from drinking, then I should be so very happy again!
Is it too late, temperance men? Please try,
Or poor little Bessie must soon starve and die;
All the day long I've been begging for bread—
Father's a drunkard, and mother is dead.

The games of billiards were left unfinished, the cards were thrown aside, and the unemptied glasses remained on the counter; all had pressed near, some with cariosity, some with sadness, and some with pity beaming from their eyes, entranced with the musical voice and beauty of the child, who seemed better fitted to be with angels above than in such a place.

The scene I shall never forget to my dying day, and the sweet cadence of her musical voice still rings in my ears, and every word of the song, as it dropped from her lips, sank deep in the hearts bere in a few days, and will be attended by the HAPPY Coincidences .- What a number of happy historical coincidences the universal Peace Treaty of Washington has given birth to! First, the British Commissioners arrived here on the greatest birthday anniversary that America celebrates—the 22d of February—the treaty was completed and signed on the 24th of May, the birthday anniversary most acceptable to Englishthe anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, the opening fight of the American Revolution, and a fight in which both sides gained honor, for while the British unmistakably whipped us, we gained all the glory; and, lastly, the treaty was proclaimed as the accepted law of the land and of the two nations on the glorious Fourth of July. Did any greater conglomeration of auspicious circumstances ever cluster about so great a masterpiece of statesmanship? Does not every date certify to the wise provisions of the treaty for maintaining peace and good will among all English-speaking people?-N. Y. Herald.

THE OPERATION AT HELL GATE.-The navigation interests which have to enter New York by the Sound, are to be essentially benefitted by the operations now on hand designed to remove the obstructions so dangerous in Hell Gate. Hallett's Point is the chief cause of danger, extending as it does, from the Long Island shore some four hundred feet into the water. It causes eddies and currents most perilous to vessels of all classes, and almost inhibiting the passage of small ves-sels.
